

Celebrating pop culture without the toxicity of exclusivity

THE AMPLIVERSE

Boys Love Boys Love

As the flagship show, Boys Love has struck a chord among many fandoms, which have garnered The Ampliverse its reach. With the hosting team of husbands Adam and RJ, their pop culture recaps of K-Pop, K-Pop survival shows, Asian BL dramas, and dating shows have fostered a community of pop culture lovers throughout the channel.

I just have to say, thank you so much for your videos, it's legit my comfort content that really helps me deal with life and puts a smile on my face. Thank you!

YOUTUBE COMMENT, 'BOYS LOVE FANTASY BOYS'

The Ampliverse is a multimedia entertainment channel that aims to celebrate pop culture without the toxicity of exclusivity — promoting a haven where fans can express and revel in their fandoms and share that connection of culture with others. From culinary and media arts like music, theater, film, and TV to social and literary critique, The Ampliverse will curate content from a variety of viewpoints and perspectives to cultivate audiences' love and understanding of contemporary and pop culture. Popular shows like 'Boys Love Boys Love,' 'Showgays,' and 'Did You Read the Group Chat?' have garnered the channel 1.6M views, 281K hours of watch time, and a rising audience of 6K across YouTube and Spotify that have connected with our pop culture content.
